Live on MLearning!

Training is in full swing for the MBECT team. We’ve had a lot of positive feedback from our hands-on training sessions and we have many more open sessions available; see details about signing up below. Can’t make it to a session in person? No problem! We’re rolling out MLearning modules to let people get training at their workstation or to use as a resource if you need a little reminder about how something works. The system is still changing as it is being built so we will be updating screenshots and details as they become relevant. We’d love to hear your feedback!
